

The Children and Nonviolence Project of The Peace Resource Center of San Diego

Offering a variety of materials for home and classroom use:

SPEAKERS—Representatives of our project are available to speak at parent meetings, teacher in-services, workshops, or conferences. Topics include:

- “Breaking the Cycle of Violence: Teaching Peaceful Values through Toys and Media”—focussing on the effects on children of violent-themed toys, television programs and other media and suggestions of positive alternatives. For teachers and parents.
- “Creating a Peaceable Environment: Skills for Teachers and Parents”—offering tips for teaching children nonviolent conflict resolution for ages preschool through grade 6.

HANDOUTS—A number of handouts on topics of interest to parents and others. Current titles available include:

- “Values Through Toys—Teach Peace: A Resource Pamphlet for Parents,” with information about alternative toys, books, games, and music that teach peace and cooperation (English & Spanish)
- “Turn TV Off—Turn Fun On,” a list of activities for children (English & Spanish)
- “What Will Your Children Learn From Their Toys?” —a list of questions to ask before purchasing a toy for a child (English & Spanish)
- “Videotapes” and “Music Cassettes”—lists of video programs and music with positive, pro-social messages for children about peace, social justice and the environment
- “Is Your Child’s Halloween Costume Too Violent? Let’s Promote Peaceful Pretending!” Ideas for costumes that provide positive, nonviolent role models (English & Spanish)
- “Classroom and School Pledge of Nonviolence”—An opportunity for classes, schools, students and teachers to make a commitment to solving their problems nonviolently and working for a peaceful community (English & Spanish)

TABLE DISPLAY OF BOOKS AND LITERATURE—Representatives of our project will come to your school, church, or organization and set up a table of free literature and books for sale for children about peace, cooperation, social justice and environmental issues. (These materials are also available at our office—please call for office hours).

For more information, contact:

The Peace Resource Center of San Diego
Children and Nonviolence Committee
3850 Westgate Place, San Diego, CA 92105
Phone: (619) 263-9301